

Internet Security

Hello everyone!

My name is Ana and I came to Denmark last Sunday.

I'm 60 years old, but don't worry, because the age is something psychological. Today I talk to you about security on the internet.

Normally I usually spend time with my grandchildren, and one day, the boy was reading a book and said "Hey Grandma, I'm going to put on Facebook that I'm reading this book." I found it very stupid, nobody has to know what we're doing. After that, we went to the Park and the kid came back to put on Facebook where we were. Imagine that someone was trying to kidnap, this is a big help. In addition, youth uses those filters with faces of dogs, anyway, this youth today leaves much to be desired. For example, when I want to talk to my kids, send them a letter and many times I wait one year for an answer, but that's okay, they're alive and I too.

With this I would like to tell you that you should be very careful with what you put in your social networks, live the moments just for yourself and not share so much with the others. Thanks for your attention!
